

A BLUNDER

The Cause of a Horrible Disaster at Cleves, O.

Who Was Responsible for It Has Not Yet Been Developed.

Eleven Persons Were Killed, and Their Remains Almost Unrecognizable When Taken From the Ruins—One Postal Clerk's Body Not Yet Discovered.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23.—The wreck at Shreve, O., on the Fort Wayne road, Wednesday, was caused by a blunder, but who was responsible for it has not yet been developed. Supt. Starr said Thursday morning: "There was no confusion of orders, as there were no orders. No one knows why the freight pulled out, but the supposition is that a fast freight running between the limited fast and No. 8, went by and the freight crew mistook it for No. 8." How such a mistake could occur Mr. Starr does not know, as he has not seen either the engineer or conductor of the freight train.

The fire completely wiped out all trace of baggage, express matter, mail and even some of the bodies of the killed. There is not a remnant or bone to be found of one of the postal clerks, the express messenger or the two ladies going from Bucyrus to Espeyville.

The financial loss by the wreck can not be estimated. It is reported that in the mail burned there was about $80,000. This is only what was in registered packages. The express matter was all burned except thirty-six silver bricks, thirty-two small and four large or double bricks, worth at least $75,000. These were taken out of the fire Thursday afternoon. Probably fifty or sixty pieces of baggage were destroyed, but what their value was the company as yet do not know.

A temporary track has been constructed, which enables trains to proceed around the wreck.

The bodies of those recovered were prepared for burial by the company's undertaker at Alliance, assisted by the undertaker at Shreve. Not one of the bodies is recognizable except by some marks or articles found about where the remains were thought to be.

It is now definitely known that there were but two women and one child burned in the wreck, instead of three women, as was at first reported. This reduces the number of dead to eleven. The charred remains of the women have been identified as Mrs. F. Shealy and her sister, Miss Campbell. Mrs. Shealy was the mother of the child killed in the wreck. They lived at Bucyrus, and were on their way to Espeyville.

The only body not yet recovered is that of F. C. Mann, the postal clerk, of Chicago.

ALLIANCE, O., Sept. 23.—James Campbell, of Espeyville, arrived here Thursday afternoon in search of his two daughters, Mrs. Fred Shealy, of Bucyrus, and Annie Campbell, who, with the former's little child, were killed in the wreck at Shreve Wednesday morning. When informed of the fate of his children the old gentleman's grief was pitiable to behold.

Two Babies With One Body.

ASPEN, Colo., Sept. 23.—There were born in this city to the wife of John Hughes a second edition of the Siamese twins, differing only in the manner in which they were joined together, these being face to face. The children are two well-formed boys, weighing sixteen pounds, with well-developed heads, arms and legs, but with but one body. The mother is 23 years of age and weighs but one hundred pounds. She has been married four years and has one child. The freak has caused a great amount of interest among the medical fraternity.

For West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania—Fair, except probable showers at lake stations; slightly warmer in western Pennsylvania; southern winds.

The flag has since been kept in Boston. It has been proposed to restore it to its owners, and it was returned Thursday by five members of the Massachusetts regiment, who arrived here.

Lawyer Assassinated.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 23.—Bud Weist, a notorious desperado of Western North Carolina, foully assassinated Alonzo Rector, leading lawyer of Marshall, that state, while the latter was assisting an officer to arrest some drunken moonshiners. Rector had just married, and was in view of his wife when killed.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS

Nominate Mrs. Victoria Martin For President and Mrs. Stow for Vice-President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—The following report of the proceedings of a national nominating convention of woman suffragists, which appears to have conducted its proceedings with unusual privacy, has been furnished to the United Press, authenticated by the signatures of Anna M. Parker, president, and Elizabeth Powers, secretary:

At the parlors of the Willard hotel Wednesday, September 21, under the call of April 26, a national convention of Woman Suffragists was held through the auspices of delegates from Victoria leagues of the different states.

Mrs. Anna M. Parker, of St. Louis, was called to the chair, and Elizabeth Powell, of Providence, R. I., acted as secretary. The call from the states brought out twenty-eight representatives selected by state conventions from New Jersey, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, Missouri, Colorado, Oregon, California, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Florida, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Kansas, New Hampshire, Maine, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Mississippi, Vermont, Pennsylvania. The states of Wyoming, North Dakota and Washington sent no delegates.

There were 50 delegates in all. On motion of Mrs. Windisch, of New York city, Mrs. Victoria Woodhull Martin, of New York and London, was nominated for president of the United States. Mrs. Cynthia Leonard, of New Jersey; Mrs. Linda Slaughter, of Washington, and Mrs. Mary L. Stow, of California, were put in nomination for vice president. Mrs. Stow received the largest number of votes for vice president.

The platform reads as follows: Whereas, Under the fourteenth amendment no citizen is deprived of the franchise through law, but by custom and habit, therefore be it Resolved, That we, the representative women of America, ask the officers in charge of the election precincts throughout the United States, in the coming campaign, to give us the opportunity to cast our ballots on the first Tuesday in November, 1912, for our candidates. Resolved, That by the united efforts of all women voters of this nation we will drive anarchy, crime, insanity and drunkenness from our midst by our humanitarian efforts backed by the ballot.

BARBAROUS SENTENCE.

A Finnish Prisoner to be Beheaded and Then Her Body to be Burned.

HELSINGFORS, Sept. 23.—The court of appeals of Finland has not only refused to commute, but has increased the severity of the sentence in the case of Mrs. Anna Saino, who was sentenced to death for the murder of her husband, a professor of the Finland State college. Mrs. Saino was younger than her husband. According to her confession she had become involved in debt, and concluded to take her husband's life in order to obtain the amount (equal to about $3,500) for which he was insured. He was sick, and instead of giving him his regular medicine, she gave him a capsule containing strychnine. She was sentenced to be beheaded and her body burned. Clemency was asked on the ground that she has a babe still at the breast. A petition has been extensively signed asking the czar, who is grand duke of Finland, to commute the sentence. The sentence of the court of appeals of Finland decrees of Mrs. Saino, that, having first had an opportunity to listen to the ministrations of a clergyman, and being prepared to die, she shall have her right hand cut off and then be beheaded.

A Sporty Parson.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 23.—Rev. J. W. Arney, who made a reputation because he raced horses week days and preached rattling good sermons Sundays, and who was thrown out of the Methodist church for it, is going back to the pulpit. He, however, will race the season out, having won six first purses in the Greenville meet and lowered Guarantee's record to 2:30. Thursday he sold Montie Patchen and Tillie S to Manistee parties for $1,200 each, with permission to fill out the season with them. He leaves the track and sulkey in two weeks, just in time to ask the conference for a pulpit.

Mrs. Harrison's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Harrison passed a comparatively comfortable day, and Thursday evening was reported to be stronger and better in every way than she was during the last few days of her stay in the mountains. An improved appetite is one of the most favorable symptoms in her case, and Thursday for the first time in over two weeks she was able to partake of solid food in the form of a small piece of beef.

The strike is rapidly extending and may involve the whole of Brown and adjoining counties. For two days this city has been overrun with the strikers, but so far the police seem to have them under control.

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Lizzie Borden's attorneys deny the report that she ever consulted a lawyer in Providence or anywhere else concerning the disposition of the property of her father.

CENTENNIAL

Anniversary of the First French Republic.

The Loyalists Were So Few as to Be Insignificant.

Even Extreme Socialists Join in the Festivities in Paris—A Grand Gala Day in the City—The Flag of the Republic Displayed Everywhere.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—One hundred years ago, Thursday, was the first day of the year one of the republic, following the revolution. Thursday was also the centennial of the "Cannonade of Valmy," the first triumph of the republican arms. On September 22, 1792, the Prussians, under the duke of Brunswick, were advancing toward Paris, driving the army of Gen. Dumouriez before them. Gen. Kellermann, commanding the army of the Rhine, hastened to the relief of Dumouriez with 20,000 men. A battle or skirmish was fought at Valmy and the Prussians were compelled to retire. For his services on that day Kellermann was subsequently created duke of Valmy by Napoleon the Great.

It was determined to celebrate the two events in an appropriate manner, and M. Bouvard, architect of the city of Paris, was appointed commissioner-general of the fete. He drew up programmes and everybody is high in praise of the manner in which all the details were carried out.

Royalists were absent, but not conspicuously so, as they have dwindled down to such a small coterie, and their absence was almost unnoticed. Both the national and municipal governments joined in making the celebration a success, and the extreme socialists went hand in hand with the moderate republicans in doing honor to the day which, while it saw the proclamation of the republic, also saw the beginning of the reign of terror.

The flag of the republic was everywhere displayed, and the statues and monuments of the great men of the revolution were decorated and adorned. Every public building was also decorated.

Two grand historical processions on the right and left banks of the Seine were the great spectacular features, and songs and representations of patriotic scenes in the early struggle of republican France against allied Europe kept the multitude in a fever of enthusiasm.

The central and leading ceremony was at the Pantheon, where President Carnot, the minister of state and the leading military commanders, as well as members of the senate and chamber of deputies, were present. The great figure of France distributing wreaths to her sons was glorified with the tricolor, and the decorations were especially impressive at the representation of liberty protecting her illustrious sons.

In honor of the president the figure of the great Carnot of the first republic was especially conspicuous, for both the profusion and the artistic character of the decorations. The figure of Napoleon Bonaparte was adorned, as well as the rest, where it stands among the distinguished soldiers of the republic and the empire, reminding the spectators of the assertion of Prince Victor Bonaparte in Wednesday's manifesto, that in celebrating the day they were celebrating the services of Napoleon. Although excellent order was generally preserved, some of the scenes were calculated to make Royalist blood run cold, and especially the unconcealed rejoicing over the fate of King Louis and his family. The anarchists who meditated trouble were in too significant minority to mar the harmony of the occasion.

Gave Away His Home.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 23.—Samuel M. Inman, the great southern cotton dealer, has made over to a board of ladies his residence and a lot worth $100,000 to be used as an orphan asylum. He also gives $30,000 cash to maintain it. An equal amount has been subscribed by other gentlemen. The institution is to be named "The Jennie D. Inman Orphanage" in honor of the memory of Mr. Inman's late wife.

True to His Word.

The family paid no attention until several hours later, when he was found to be in a stupor. A physician was called, and pronounced the case one of morphine poisoning, but could not relieve him. He died at an early hour Thursday morning.

The Plague Stamped Out.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—There were no new cases or suspected cases of cholera reported to the board of health Thursday morning, and President Wilson seems to be of the opinion that the dreaded disease had been nipped in the bud. There are now only seven houses in the city under quarantine, but says Dr. Wilson, even this is merely a precaution.
